Volume 2

Chapter 1 Emotional Driving (3 minutes 46 seconds)

Topics and tips: Attitudes and emotions are significant influences in traffic collisions. Though the danger is impossible to precisely quantify, it has become very clear that drivers operating under the influence of a wide variety of positive and negative emotions can be easily separated from their driving skills. Tips include recognizing the dangers and developing effective countermeasures to bring the problems under control.

Chapter 2 Choose Your Company (5 minutes 12 seconds)

Topics and tips: Having traffic near our vehicles is almost inevitable in daily driving. A very useful skill is being able to recognize which drivers in the traffic flow represent the greatest danger to us as we operate our vehicles. Tips include how to detect the attitudes, preoccupations and skill deficiencies that signal the need to take preventive measures. Swift problem recognition and defensive vehicle placement are taught in this Safety Short.

Chapter 3 You Aren't Multitasking (3 minutes 53 seconds)

Topics and tips: Distracted driving is both dangerous and common. Over time, people often come to believe that they are skillful behind-the-wheel multitaskers. In reality, it is usually just luck that keeps them out of trouble. This presentation casts the spotlight on what is really happening when people choose to juggle tasks as they operate their vehicles. Viewers learn to understand the difference between multitasking and rapidly shuffling single tasks as they drive. Properly understood, the difference isn't semantics—it is an informed choice about life and death.
